Lawyer Johnson Makes the Argument for Mrs. Opel.

Me Scores the Defendant and Some of His Witnesses.

POINTING TO MRS. OPEL HE ASKS IF SHE LOOKS A FOOL.

Such She Certainly Would Be, He Said, If Half the Absurd Testimony Against Her Could Be Credit—Witness Versteeg Dencounced in Strong Terms—The Testimony of the Defense Answered.

Judge Valiant heard the arguments of counsel in the Opel divorce case this morning. Before they began the Judge stated that he desired to hear everything either side had to say, and he therefore would not limit time.

Mr. Johnson began for the plaintiff. He desired to congratulate the Judge, Mr. Kehl and himself upon the progress of the case so far, and he apologized for anything he may have said or done unworthy of his cooler moments. The case was simple, he said, as a matter of law. The difficulty the court would have would be to reconcile the facts.

The plaintiff's action was based solely on the ground that the defendant had charged her before her children and her friends with being guilty of adultery. The plaintiff laid on the table the bill of lading of that kind constituted such indignity as to render her condition intolerable. The lawyer could imagine no greater indignity than a vicious reference to the conduct of children than that she had been unfaithful to her marriage vows for virtue is the crowning mark of a woman's character, it was argued, and the husband, for a woman so charged could never recover her standing.

EVIDENCE ANALYZED.

Mr. Johnson then went into the evidence adduced by the plaintiff. He took up the testimony of John W. Leader, which he said was corroborated by his judgment in favor of the defendant. And yet, it showed that the defendant had told him, a friend of the family, that Mrs. Opel was unfaithful to him. Mr. Johnson then argued that these same charges had been made to him, although he tried to lighten the effect by testifying that the defendant was not his friend.

Mr. Opel's testimony was, in effect, the same. Mr. Deedehamer, Mr. Gerrells, the plaintiff and her sister were also witness to his effect.

The "dicky" incident was recalled and gone over by the lawyer, as was the Southern Hotel incident, where in the presence of the wife, Mrs. Opel, he had lied to the mother and accused her of adultery. Mr. Opel denied this, but, unfortunately for him, Myra substantiated the wife.

It was not easy for the defendant to do this with his friends, but he deliberately went into court and charged her with adultery. The court, however, might be a silent witness against her for all time.

The defendant reiterated the admission of the cross-examination. He threatened to bring the suit on the ground of adultery if she did not return to him the stock he had given her. He declined to bring the suit on the ground of adultery, and yet to recover the paltry $30.00 he brought the suit on the more serious ground. He admitted that he took her back to the house, but he was not guilty in May, 1888, when he took her back and yet in the cross bill he alleged that he did not know her to be guilty when he gave her the stock that charge in itself was alone sufficient for the granting of the woman's plea.

It is an accusation against this woman for which she can only remain silent. She will always be confronted with that record. The plaintiff is, therefore, entitled to a decree. Ignoring the testimony of Myra, the plaintiff, in the plain, has shown that one charge entitles her to the divorce.

Turning to the accusations against the plaintiff's character, the lawyer said that the plaintiff, when and whom he dictated made out a prima facie case. Taking up the Gasconade Hotel incident at Lebanon, January, 1888, the lawyer said that Mrs. Opel had gone there with her husband's knowledge—he furnished her the means. The register showed that F. R. Brown was there at that time. Mrs. Opel, Mrs. Beatty, testified that she, by mere chance had assisted Mr. Brown his room. Mrs. Beatty testified that Brown had seemed to have been in a state of intoxication to his room most of the time. There is not a scintilla of evidence to show that either Mr. Brown or Mrs. Opel knew of the other's presence.

There is no other inference to be drawn from this than the charge of adultery of the plaintiff. Here is an attempt to approach the life of the plaintiff's daughter, in so far as to this hotel as other women of her character do and behaves herself well in every respect so far as the evidence goes. It is a fact, however, to prove that they were guilty. The gentlemen are reduced to desperation as when they have to resort to such acts as when to break down the reputation of a mother.

CONDUCT AT HOME.

The basis for the charge of adultery at the house is the evidence which shows the conduct of the parties while Mr. Opel was East. For the first time direct confirmation in the evidence is met. The evidence on the part of the defendant is that she was to that of servants in the house servants then and still servants, who at one time were on friendly terms with the mistress, but are still servants.

In addition, we have the testimony of his sister, a pensioner on his bounty, and that of his niece, whom the defendant had taken into the house, and the father discarded her and treated like a daughter.

Mary Mischa's testimony was reviewed by the lawyer. He then asked her what were the probabilities of its truth. She had pretended to be shocked, and yet she had given her answer.

This act charged is the one above all others which it is human nature to conceal. It is a reflection upon the intelligence of the plaintiff that she has allowed the parlor in her own house and left the nightgown on the bed. It is too absurd to discuss. The room, standing open, servants coming and going, in the house, under these circumstances it is absurd to say that the mother would brazenly do such a thing.

Mrs. Alpert's testimony is rebuttable, that she had given Mr. Brown the nightgown, is consistent with common sense, honor and virtue.

In regard to Mary Mischa's testimony about her seeing Brown with his arm about Mrs. Opel, Mr. Johnson used the same objection. Every time Mrs. Opel had tried to do this, she certainly would not lay her hands to detection by the daughter and the servants, the same objections

The room, standing open, servants coming and going, in the house, under these circumstances it is absurd to say that the mother would brazenly do such a thing.

Mrs. Alpert's testimony is rebuttable, that she had given Mr. Brown the nightgown, is consistent with common sense, honor and virtue.

In regard to Mary Mischa's testimony about her seeing Brown with his arm about Mrs. Opel, Mr. Johnson used the same objection.

Every time Mrs. Opel had tried to do this, she certainly would not lay her hands to detection by the daughter and the servants, the same objections were urged against the other incidents testified to by this witness.

The testimony of the witness is false. Perhaps it was founded upon some fact, but it was strained for some reason, and was contradicted by the evidence of Miss Blanche. The lawyer said that she had told Miss Blanche all of the circumstances reported in court, and the daughter testified that on the night-gown incident had been told to her.

Admitting, for the sake of argument, that these changes are true, can there be no other conclusion than that she never took advantage of it.

Mr. Alpert, Blanche Opel and Amy Opel impeached the witness, testifying that Mrs. Opel during Mr. Opel's absence East.

The lawyer said that she had told that of Miss Blanche. She swore that she had told Miss Blanche all of these circumstances. Miss Blanche swore that all knew of Amy's action, and that she did not know of Brown's action. The daughters had as good an opportunity to observe impropriety as the servants, and they have testified that the servants, and the daughters, did not know of it.

Miss Amy said that she only thought Brown kissed her mother good-bye on the train, but that she did not know if he was poisoned by the father, so that the slight occurrence was distorted in their minds.

The testimony of Charles Russell, the coachman, was gone into. He had sworn that on numerous occasions he had seen an impression between Brown and Amy Opel. On cross-examination, he said that the impression was not so strong that he could not be sure of it.

During the lawyer's explanation of the ride to Cherokee Garden, which Brown and Amy Opel took, he declared it was a single man and a married woman could be as pure as that between man and man and woman. He considered that the relation between man and woman.

Mr. Alpert, Blanche Opel and Amy Opel impeached the witness, testifying that Mrs. Opel was accompanied to the ball by Mrs. Alpert and Miss Blanche.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Boutelle’s violent efforts in behalf of the restoration of the McKinley bill are inspired by no envious feeling toward another Maine statesman who sometimes seems to favor a moderate tariff.

An electric light official’s testimony that he gave a Toronto Alderman $1,000 in cash for that official’s influence indicates that in annexing Canada we should not get much light on municipal reform from our new fellow-citizens.

Senator Peffer’s bill to do away with Congressional funeral junketing has been received with so much approval all over the country that there is reason to hope that the Senator may be stimulated to think of some other useful legislation before he returns to his people.

Every man does something in his lifetime which he looks back on with more or less unconfessed shame, but it is wonderful to hear such a man as ex-Gov. Charles P. Johnson volunteer the information for publication that he introduced the bill creating the Court of Criminal Correction.

Because Chancellor Pitney of New Jersey does not want to enforce the anti-trust law does not bar him from trying a trust case under Mr. Cleveland’s Attorney-General. In view of this confession Atty.-Gen. Olney may now be induced to bring suit against a trust in Chancellor Pitney’s court.

The Chicago Herald altogether misunderstands it if supposes that St. Louis is begging for any convention whatever. St. Louis merely calls attention to its greatly increased facilities for making a convention crowd comfortable and of enabling them to keep in a frame of mind favorable to judicious nominations. It is the nation’s welfare and that of its representatives that we are seeking.

The Young Men’s Democratic Club of Massachusetts proclaims that a majority of the people of the United States stand as firmly upon the policy announced by the Democratic party in its Chicago platform as they did in 1892, and denounces Mr. Gorman and the other betrayers of the party. Democratic disgust in the East is as widespread as it is in the West.

The Christmas shoppers are harboring of returning prosperity. They crowd the streets and pack the stores. They are not only looking but buying. It is estimated at the Post-offices that the Christmas mail of this year has increased not less than 30 per cent over that of last year. This is solid evidence of better times. The holiday season is full of the signs of reviving business.

If we promptly cut Germany off from all our markets, it will, according to the McKinley theory, be of vast advantage to us. It is difficult, therefore, to understand those high tariff journals that are complaining because bounty-paid German sugar is obstructed in its passage to this country, giving the Germans an excuse for shutting us out. If the “American” theory is correct, America and Germany will be benefited by ceasing to trade with each other.

The city of Louisville talks of selling its waterworks to pay off its bonded indebtedness. Water rates are high and the city is realizing nothing from the plant. Do the people of Louisville imagine that they would not soon have another large debt if they were to get rid of the ones they have? Would not the debt-makers apply themselves with renewed energy to their work? Unless Louisville is an exception to the municipal rule they will.

CATCH THE BIG RASCALS.

The Grand-jury investigation of election frauds is drawing to a close, yet so far none but petty offenders—the small rascals who are paid to do the dirty work that big rascals profit by—have been indicted.

Small rascality is as deserving of punishment as big rascality, but its punishment is not worth as much to the community, whose welfare is the highest object of all law. The big rascals who pay for and profit by violations of law are the master criminals who tempt to criminality and make it profitable and safe by paying for crime and corrupting the administration of justice.

The punishment of any number of their wretched tools will not compensate for the escape of these master criminals. This community can well afford to adopt the plan of the Lexow Committee and give immunity and protection to lesser rascals in order to catch and punish the greater.

The indictment of a score of election law-breakers shows that money was paid to pay for law-breaking. The bribees are the ones to be caught. If they are not caught and only a few subordinate criminals are brought to trial the Grand-jury investigation and the work of the Lexow Committee will be a pompous travesty.

REGISTRATION REFORM.

In his testimony in the Walt-Atkinson election contest Recorder of Voter Higgins endorsed substantially the plan of registration reform which the Post-Dispatch has advocated as a necessary condition to the reduction of election frauds to a minimum.

Mr. Higgins unequivocally condemns the present system and declares that the old registration books should be destroyed and a system of annual registration adopted. He supports the plan of precinct registration, revision and posting, which is the only sound method.

The revision of the registration system is a matter of charter amendment, and the plan should be formulated with great care. The work properly falls within the scope of the task assigned the commission suggested for the revision of the charter.

One desirable point of change is overlooked by Mr. Higgins. That is the reduction of the precincts. The limit for each precinct now fixed by the charter is 1,000 voters. This should be reduced to not more than 200. The Municipal Assembly is empowered to redistrict the city into precincts, and this reform could be accomplished at any time. The work should be promptly done. Large precincts favor fraud.

DANGEROUS HASTE.

The currency bill which the Banking and Currency Committee hastily and without consideration reported to the House has been withdrawn and another bill just as hastily drawn under Secretary Carlisle’s direction has been offered as a substitute.

The programme of the committee was to rush the Carlisle bill through the House. It was presented as a perfect measure, which the House could accept, as the committee had accepted it. Just as it came from the hands of its maker it is an admission that the measure was faulty and that, if the committee’s programme had been followed, the House would have committed a stupendous blunder.

What guarantee is there that this hastily considered and tinkered substitute is not full of flaws? The object in amending it seems not to have been so much the making of a sound bill as the winning over of opposing bankers and their representatives to its support.

The action of the committee conveys a warning lesson to the House to go slow in adopting a currency measure.

The subject is one that will not bear hasty tinkering. A blunder would be most disastrous. We had better bear with the bill we have than rush into new measures without knowing what the consequences may be. No measure should be adopted without the most careful consideration and thorough knowledge.

The wisest plan would be to appoint a non-partisan commission of able men to investigate the whole currency question and report its conclusions to Congress.

A HYPNOTIZED TOWN.

The town of Abingdon, Ill., has been forced to protect itself from hypnotism. What would have finally become of the good people of Abingdon if the Town Council, backed by Mayor Helderfast, had not passed an ordinance prohibiting the practice of hypnotism under a penalty of $25 for each offense, it is difficult to say.

All the trouble came of a series of lectures delivered in the town, the lecturer telling his hearers that every one had hypnotic power and advising its general practice. It is asserted that the people became crazed. Many acted as if bewitched; others believed themselves under hypnotic control; people religiously inclined suffered from spiritual exaltation; and, in fine, business in Abingdon was largely suspended and hypnotism flourished. One of the worst features of this Abingdon hypnotism was the scandalous conduct of the young men and young women of the place, who, pretending to have been hypnotized, threw off all restraints and behaved in the most shocking manner.

The method adopted by the Illinois Town Council to stamp out hypnotism is worthy of consideration. Hypnotism threatens to become a dangerous raid. Every offender, to prove his innocence, has only to put in the plea that he has been hypnotized. By prompt application of law to both hypnotizer and hypnotized, that would be aghast at the docked tails.

He who is hypnotized into violations of law will have to be un-hypnotized by legal process. He will soon be taught to exercise his will to defy the hypnotizer.

SEVERAL AGENTS.

Real Estate Men Want an Exclusive Agency Combine.

THEY CLAIM PROPERTY OWNERS WOULD OBTAIN BETTER PRICES.

The practice of property-owners placing one piece of property in the hands of several agents is causing no end of trouble and annoyance to the real estate men and the results obtained by the owners are said to be not half so good. This practice, which makes agents at war with each other at times, is one which can only be done with by concerted action on the part of the agents. Some action will doubtless be taken by the members of the Real Estate Exchange in the near future and by the agencies who have not become members of the Exchange. Several large agencies have adopted the plan of not allowing their property to be listed with them unless the owner was willing to give them the exclusive agency of the property for a certain period of time.

RUSSELL’S CASE—HOPELESS.—The case of John E. Russell, the stricken theatrical actor, is declining rapidly. He is one of the most eminent specialists in America. Last week Dr. Spitzka was asked by Mr. Russell’s friends to visit him in the hospital. Dr. Spitzka is a man of great tact, with a view to passing his opinion upon the ultimate outcome. Dr. Spitzka, after a half hour with Mr. Russell, said that it was useless to hope for a favorable conclusion. The manager, he said, was breaking down rapidly, and could not be put in condition to work again. But if his view of the situation is to some extent pessimistic, it is nevertheless a fact that no business of any consequence is being done there.

WILLIE WALTERS’ CHANGE.—Manager Robert Arthur of “A Trip to Chinatown” denies the severance of the business relations between him and Willie Walters, who is the Madison actress who was in New York was due to a falling off in patronage.

“I know,” he said, “that ‘A Milk White Girl’ has been doing a splendid business as large as ever. ‘A Trip to Chinatown’ did not have yet lessened the reason for Mr. Walters’ falling off, but I know that he is getting out of the show business. If he could become manager of the Patten girls, as was suggested, he would have an immense amount of fun. I feel sure that he will be as successful as he was in the past.”

ROYALISTS IN JAIL.

An Alleged Conspiracy Nipped in the Bud at Honolulu.

HONOLULU, Dec. 14.—The talk of the town this week is in the unearthing of an alleged Royalist conspiracy. On Saturday evening last the police went to the house of John E. Bush and arrested him and F. C. Creek on a charge of conspiracy against the Government. Upon searching the house several rifles were found. Soon after being lodged in jail, Joseph Nawahi, a native, was also arrested on the same charge. About midnight W. F. Weed and Emil Klemme were also arrested, the former as an accessory to the conspiracy and the latter for having arms in his possession unlawfully.

Several houses of suspects were searched on Sunday, but no arms found. On Monday night a full search of the house occupied by Creek brought to light four rifles, two pistols and 150 rounds of ammunition, all of which were confined under the floor. The men are confined in separate cells and will be examined on Monday next, ball being refused in the meantime.

There have been several shocks of earthquake on the Island of Hawaii and one on this island during the past few days. The shock of Dec. 10 was the most violent. Creek is an English chemist and was implicated in the alleged Walker-Rice conspiracy. He was arrested on Dec. 10, his arrest appealed to British Commissioner Hawes for protection, but was told that nothing could be done for him. Creek's lawyer says that he is innocent. He says it will cost near $6,000.

Local officials are very reticent about the case, but claim to have abundant evidence to convict the principal conspirators.

REBELS STILL ACTIVE.

Indications of Further Serious Trouble in Samoa.

APIA, Samoa, Dec. 4.—The rebels have declared their intention of making armed resistance to the Government, and are rallying the forts at Lutuamua, which were recently destroyed by the British and the German war ships. Everything indicates that serious trouble may be again looked for.

Owing to information having been received by the authorities of a shipment of arms and ammunition from Europe to Samoa, the cargoes of all incoming vessels will be searched, and any war matériel found will be confiscated.

SUPPOSED TO BE HYSTERIA.

She Acts Much as if Afflicted With Hysteria, However.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 21.—A strange case is occupying the attention of the physicians of Steven's Point. The patient, Miss Cora Simonds of that village, is a young woman about 23 years of age. She was bitten by a dog about two years ago, and from her symptoms of barking and frothing at the mouth, it was at first thought she had hysteria, but as her case develops it seems more probable that she has hysteria. She claims to have knowledge by inspiration, all the time, of what is to happen in the village. She also says she has died and gone to heaven, talked with her loved ones who have gone before her, and seen the dead. The physicians are puzzled over the case and are unable to determine just what her complaint is.

CURRENCY BILL.

Steps for the Partial Protection of the New City Hall Taken.

President McFath of the Board of Public Improvements, who, with Park Commissioner Fether and Water Commissioner Homan, form a committee for the inspection of the condition of the new City Hall, has asked the Municipal Assembly to appropriate $100 to close the doors and windows of the new City Hall. The bill introduced in the House of Delegates at the last meeting, but was shelved. That the doors and windows should be closed as required, is in the City Hall fund available for this purpose, about $600. At the next meeting of the Board of Public Improvements, the committee will make its report and ask that this amount be used for the purpose as far as it will go. The committee will then, in its present form, introduce the new City Hall bill to become a resort for tramps, who sleep in it in spite of the watchman, and that it is being used for all the openings in the building closed, but that the doors and windows will not be used for safety. The committee will recommend, however, that the $600 be used and that, beginning at the earliest opportunity, the doors and windows be nailed up as far as the money will go.

DAVID FOUND GUILTY.

The Jury Bring in a Verdict of Murder in the First Degree.

LINN, Mo., Dec. 22.—David must hang. One of the most important murder trials ever held in Osage County has just closed. Emil David, defendant, in a case in which he was indicted for the murder of Frank Henderson by poisoning, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree. The crime of which David is convicted is the murder of Frank Henderson of the county by poisoning.

The circumstances of the crime, as shown by the evidence, were as follows: One morning, on Jan. 3, 1894, Frank Henderson went to the residence of Fred David, Emil's father, and, after approaching the house, was met in the yard by Emil David, who asked Henderson if he did not want a drink of whisky. Henderson drank it, and, after a short time, became violently sick; and before medical assistance could reach him he died.

An inquest was held, and the stomach was sent to Dr. Charles R. Sanger, professor of chemistry, Washington University, St. Louis, for analysis, and found five-sixths of a grain of strichnine in the stomach. This fact, with other evidence, led to the indictment of David for murder.

The apparent motive for the alleged murder was the intimate relations between Henderson and Emil David's sister, who was the mother of David.

In the event of David's hanging, it will be the first legal execution ever held in Osage County.

SUIT FOR $5,000.

Harnessmaker Fovial Was Burned to Death in Jail and Damages Asked.

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., Dec. 22.—Suit for $5,000 has been commenced against the municipality of Webster City. It grows out of the burning to death of harness-maker Fovial about six months ago in the city jail. Fovial was one of the leading business men of the town. He was a man who had almost mastered the drink habit, but while disposing of a small stock of goods at Duncombe he took a few drinks, and upon returning home he consented to be debarred until he was arrested and locked in the city jail.

He was not searched before being incarcerated, and, when he was discovered to be set fire to the bedding, and before the flames could be extinguished he was burned to a crisp. The filing of the notice of the suit causes consternation among the attorneys and those who have given the matter thought that his widow and heirs can recover the city.

VERSAILLES, O., Dec. 22.—While en route from Celia to Versailles Andrew Baumgardner, an insurance man of this city, was thrown in company with a stranger, who proved to be his own brother, and who had long since been mourned as dead. They had met on a previous occasion, but neither of them had any knowledge of the other. A friend of Mr. Baumgardner, who was present at the time of the meeting, spoke of the marked resemblance between the two men. This led them to inquire, and they found that they were brothers. Their homes for some years have only been forty miles apart. The brother, whose whereabouts were unknown to the family, is a drummer of Dayton.
